"I was hard into drugs, I almost killed myself. In my senior year, the school decided to put me in a class called School Success. There I met an amazing teacher who genuinely cared about her students. That was where I first saw Natural High and I fell in love with it. I ended up crying by the time it was done because I thought of everything I had missed out on and how badly I had sunken into this black hole of drugs. It inspired me. That day was the day I had decided to not do drugs anymore. I'm a lot happier now. I've taken up writing stories and ice skating, my natural highs that I used to love to do before I got into drugs but had lost touch. I don't think kids really understand the impact drugs have on their lives. Thank you for talking to kids in a way we can relate to."
